BERLIN SEES MENACE IN LEAGUE PLAN FOR SILESIA

German Chancellor Says It Would Prejudice Cabinet's Position

DEFERS ACTION

Outline Of Purpose In View Is Presented To M. Briand

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Oct. 12.—It is officially announced that at a meeting of the Imperial Cabinet today, the Chancellor, Dr. Wirth, declared that, if the League of Nations decision on Silesia was really as reported, a new situation would be created which would prejudice the conditions under which the present Government assumed the conduct of affairs. The Cabinet's decision was deferred until after it had been officially notified of the verdict of the Supreme Council.

PLAN IS COMPLEX

Geneva, Oct. 12.—The Council of the League of Nations has forwarded its recommendations to M. Briand with regard to Upper Silesia, which are complex in character but substantially amount to a proposal for the establishment of a political frontier line, practically based upon the plebiscite, with stipulations for the regulation of the public supply services and railways over varying periods of years, the abolition of Customs duties and the maintenance of German Mark as currency.

WALES COMES TO FIND OUT WHAT FAR EAST MEANS

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—A strong appeal for support to the British Empire Exhibition to be held at Wembley in 1923 was made by the Prince of Wales today, presiding at a meeting at the Mansion House for the furtherance of the project.

The Prince urged that in order to provide employment for some of the thousands of able-bodied men "who offered their all for their country" the work should not be delayed. His Royal Highness asked for an immediate guarantee of £1,000,000 and declared that nothing would set him on his way to India rejoicing more than the knowledge that this problem was being tackled and that consequently there were a few thousand happier homes.

Referring to his Indian tour, the Prince of Wales said that he hoped to "garner fresh experiences of what the British Commonwealth of nations means and receive firsthand information of some of our difficulties in the Far East."

Leading American Statesman Dead

PHILANDER C. KNOX
(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 12.—The death is announced of Senator Philander Chase Knox at the age of 68.

Philander Chase Knox, who was one of the outstanding statesmen of recent American history, was 68 years old at the time of his death. He was born at Brownsville, Pa.

After his admission to the bar in 1875, he became assistant United States district attorney for the Western district of Pennsylvania. He served as attorney general in the cabinets of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, following which he was appointed United States Senator by Governor Pennypacker of Pennsylvania for the unexpired term of United States Senator Matthew Quay. This was in 1904. He was elected to the office in 1905. He resigned from the Senate in 1909 to become Secretary of State in the cabinet of President W. H. Taft.

While serving in that post, in the year of 1908, he was regarded as a Republican candidate for the Presidency, and at the Republican National Convention he received 68 votes. In 1916 he again became a United States Senator.

Police And Soldiers Clash At Hangchow

Reports of a clash between soldiers and police at Hangchow with a man killed on either side are carried in the Chinese press.

According to wires received a number of soldiers of the 4th division got into a quarrel with workmen in the electricity department on Wednesday and being outnumbered fired several shots, wounding some coolies. One soldier is reported to have been killed in the affray. The troops were angered because the police had not come to their assistance and following the fight a large number stormed the fourth sub-station in the first police district, demolishing the place. One policeman is said to have been killed. Shopkeepers in the district became panic stricken and all shops were closed.

HARDING IS CALLING ON WORLD PRESS TO STAND BY

Urges Promotion of Good Will By National Newspapers

INFLUENCE GREAT

Pacific Should Be Seat Of Generous Ideals And Open Competion

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 12.—President Harding has sent a letter to the World's Press Congress at Honolulu, expressing the hope that the World's Press will do its part to promote international understandings, and particularly to facilitate the tasks of the Armaments Conference. He declared that the press could wield a great and beneficent influence in solving the Pacific problem, adding: "The Pacific ought to be the seat of generous, free and open minded competition between the best ideals of Eastern and Western life."

HARDING TO TAKE PART

Washington, Oct. 12.—President Harding will take an active part in the preparatory stages of the Armaments Conference and will probably participate directly in some meetings. It is expected that the first session will be devoted to a statement of the national policies for which each Government will stand during the negotiations, and the compilation of information with regard to the exact status of Far Eastern questions and data with regard to the naval and military situations, which will be taken up under separate heads.

HOLD FIRST MEETING

Washington, Oct. 12.—The first meeting of the American delegates to the Disarmament Conference was held at the State Department today when the formulation of the policies which America will pursue was begun.

BALFOUR MAY GO

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—Reuter's Agency learns that Mr. Balfour will probably be persuaded to go to the Washington Conference. He will be head of the British delegation.

HARDING STATES VIEW

Washington, Oct. 12.—What President Harding's opinion of the possibility of universal disarmament, which he was asked to support by a resident of Brooklyn, is, appears from his reply, in which he declares that this is beyond hope of realisation and perhaps is not even desirable.

Reasonable limitation is a practicable proposition but human nature would require a revolutionary reorganisation to make universal disarmament possible.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 13.—The Premier's assumption of the Navy Portfolio has been received with general satisfaction, as being evidence of the victory over the narrow militarist conception of limiting the Army and Navy Portfolios to members of these services only.

Thus far there has been strong opposition to a civilian Minister of the Navy, which was claimed to have been based on the Constitution but has now been overruled, thus creating a new precedent which must be understood as showing the decreasing influence of militarist elements.

PACIFIC CABLE ADDED

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 12.—The Government has added wireless and cable communications in the Pacific among the proposed subjects for the forthcoming Conference.

Washington, Oct. 12.—It is understood that the disarmament delegates favored admitting the press to all full sessions of the Conference.

Portugal has formally accepted the invitations to participate in the Conference.

One Of The U. S. Guardians Of Peace In The Pacific

HERE is the flagship California of the Pacific Fleet, more powerful than any other ship afloat, except the Tennessee and Maryland, and they wouldn't fight, being sisters. The California is 675 feet long, weighs 33,000 tons and draws 31 feet of water. She is run by electricity. The current is generated by turbines in the main engine room and transferred to the motors which actuate the screw propellors. Several men could sleep, perhaps not comfortably on one blade of them, and the main generators would make the late lamented Jumbo look like a baby elephant. Below is shown Captain Henry J. Ziegemeir, of Canton, Ohio, who has the honor of commanding the U. S. S. California. Captain Ziegemeir was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1886 by former President McKinley, who was then a Representative from Ohio.

SUN HAS 30,000

(China Press Correspondence)

Canton, Oct. 13.—Heading an army of 30,000 men and with Yochow as his objective, Dr. Sun Yat-sen is leaving here Saturday on a campaign to free Yochow of Wu Pei-fu troops and to give Hupeh an opportunity to choose its own governor and determine the kind of government it desires.

Half of Dr. Sun's army is now on the Hunan harder and the ermainder will skirt the Eastern border of Hunan on the way to Yochow.

General Chen Chiung-ming will not accompany Dr. Sun. Li Lieh-chun, Szechuen leader and a number of other generals are on Dr. Sun's staff.

THINK SUN WILL FAIL

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 11.—Canton plans for a general attack on the Northern Government by way of the Yangtsze Valley are reaching maturity, according to telegraphic reports from Hongkong received here today.

While General Chen Chuin-ming has not yet announced his willingness to head such an expedition, Sun Yat-sen is doing his utmost to persuade Chen to lead the Southern forces in their northern invasion.

Failing Chen Chuin-ming, however, it is understood that Sun Yat-sen wishes to accompany the Southern armies himself, although leaving the command of them in the field to his protege and chief military adherent, General Hsu.

The reasons for the sudden hastening of Canton's military plans, according to military intelligence reports received by the Peking Government, is to be found in the collapse of the Hunanese and Szechuenese, whose defeat by Wu Pei-fu is endangering the safety and prestige of the Canton Government.

Sun Yat-sen wishes to regain the prestige lost by the South in these two campaigns so that he can continue his policy of absorp-

BRITISHERS SEND BUSINESS MEN ON TRIP TO EUROPE

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 13.—The Shinyo Maru which sailed for America today carried a large number of the Japanese Delegation and pressmen to the Washington Conference, as well as Baron Shibusawa and the members of his mission, who received an enthusiastic send-off.

The British Society of Tokio gave a banquet in honor of the members of the business mission to Great Britain, under the chairmanship of Mr. E. F. Crowe, the Commercial Counsellor of the British Embassy, in the absence of Sir Charles Briton the Ambassador.

Replying to the toast of success to the Mission, Mr. Manzo Kushida, of the Mitsubishi Bank, outlined the purposes of the visit. The Mission, he said, wished to exchange views on business methods and practices and to learn how British financiers and others were meeting the period of re-action and re-adjustment after the war. The present unsettled conditions being world-wide, the improvement of one country must be reflected everywhere, and therefore mutual understanding and harmonious co-operation between leading commercial nations were primarily essential, he declared. Inspired by this spirit and the desire to reach practical results the Mission goes to Great Britain, and requests sympathetic response from British business men.

TWO CHILDREN DIE IN BLAZE; 3 WOMEN HURT

Ten hours after a fire in Kuling Road had been extinguished, Sinza Division firemen who were examining the debris of the burned structures yesterday morning came upon the bodies of two children, a Chinese girl 11 years old and a boy of sixteen. While the fire was in progress three Chinese women [illegible] from an upper story and [illegible] injuries for which they are under treatment at the Shantung Road Hospital, but no report of missing children was made at the time of the fire and it is thought that the two whose bodies were found perished from suffocation.

The blaze was discovered shortly after midnight yesterday, evidently having started in a coach building and motor car repair shop at L250 Kuling Road. When the firemen arrived the flames had spread to six nearby structures, all of which were intercommunicating. As quantities of paint, gasoline and oils were stored in the various structures the fire spread with fierce rapidity and presented a difficult problem for the Sinza firemen.

It was not until the flames had been brought well under control with jets in use at all angles that it was found that three women had been hurt in jumping from upper windows. Two had suffered fractured legs and the injuries of the third were not fully ascertained. All three were sent to hospital by the firemen.

No estimate has yet been made of the extent of the loss, but it is thought that in addition to the various structures several automobiles were destroyed.

Poplar Borough Councillors Freed

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12—The divisional court has ordered the release of the Poplar Borough councillors who were arrested on September 2nd for refusing to pay rates to the London County Council on the ground that the borough was overburdened by excessive poor relief owing to unemployment.

The whole question of the local government of Greater London will be overhauled by a Royal Commission under the Chairmanship of Viscount Ullswater, whose terms of reference are to secure greater efficiency and economy in administration and to reduce inequalities in local taxation. The Commission will include a Labor representative.

As a result of a petition in which they apologised to the Court and expressed their desire to assist the authorities in reaching a solution of the difficulties of the present situation.

COUNTRY'S WHOLE NAVAL FORCE WILL BE HELD ON WEST AMERICAN COAST

Two Fleets, To Be Merged As One, Will Guard United States Interests In Orient As Well As In Waters Contiguous To The Homeland

MUST BUILD NEW NAVAL STATIONS

Present Facilities For Fleet Bases Are Inadequate Say Those Familiar With Pacific Coast Drydock Facilities; Big Extensions Expected

WASHINGTON, October 13.—As a result of sweeping changes that have been directed by the Navy Department at Washington the two American fleets, originally created as the Pacific Fleet and the Atlantic Fleet under the Wilson Administration, are to be merged into a single gigantic fighting machine to be stationed in the Pacific.

According to naval experts such a combination of American naval forces will constitute the greatest fighting organisation on the seas. It is seen that such a departure will necessitate immediately vast extensions of the whole Pacific naval program, for which already huge sums have been appropriated to enlarge existing stations on the Pacific coast, at Honolulu and in the Philippines.

If America's major naval forces are to be concentrated in the Pacific it is accepted that the present great naval stations on Puget Sound and at Mare Island, near San Francisco, to say nothing of the huge establishment at Pearl Harbor and that at Cavite, all will have to be enormously expanded. It is seen also as a possibility that an entirely new American naval base may have to be established at Guam.

The consolidation of the two great fighting forces, it is understood, will be carried into effect next January, when the Atlantic and Pacific fleets are to meet in Guantanamo Bay, for tactical practice.

Alexander S. Halstead, Commander of the 12th Naval District.

LODGE WITH HARDING

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Oct. 12.—The fierce press criticism of the Panama Bill continues. The New York Times states that Senator Lodge voiced President Harding's opinion in urging the rejection of the Bill and describes its passage by the Senate as a thoroughly bad business.

Every possible step, the journal adds, should be taken to undo the mischief. The administration ought not to lose time in letting foreign Governments and Americans know that it will go no further.

ENGINEERS HERE TO STUDY HARBOR TAKE TRIP TODAY

Experts Will Look Over Ground; Conference Starts Tomorrow

Members of the International Commission of Engineering Experts to study the Shanghai harbor development problem will be taken out on a preliminary trip on the Whangpoo today to study conditions previous to the two-months' conference which is scheduled to begin tomorrow.

Five of the six members of the International committee are already in town and the sixth delegate is expected to arrive today. Those members who arrived early on the scene have already been out with the chiefs of the Whangpoo Conservancy Board looking over the ground and a series of trips is planned for the committee when all are assembled.

The members already here are Major-General W. M. Black, formerly chief of U. S. A. Engineers and now consulting engineer in the firm of Black, McKenney and Stewart, representing America; Mr. P. G. Hornell, consulting engineer of the Hydraulic Engineering Bureau of Stockholm, representing the Chinese Chambers of Commerce; Mr. P. Ott de Vries, formerly head of the Department of Public Works of Netherlands, India, representing Holland; Mr. L. Perrier, for twenty years engineer on the Suez Canal, representing France, and Mr. Isamu Hiroi, of Japan. The British member, Mr. F. Palmer, consulting engineer of the Port of London Authority, is expected here today.

The sessions of the committee are to begin tomorrow and on Monday evening the visiting experts will be guests of honor at a banquet to be given at the Astor House.

On next Tuesday the members will be taken on a trip along the coast to Hangchow Bay to study conditions and on next Thursday they will take houseboats for a trip up the Whangpoo.

Strauss Boards Huron To Go On Southern Voyage

The U. S. S. Huron, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, left Shanghai yesterday for Woosung, where Rear-Admiral Joseph Strauss, commander in chief of the fleet, will go on board.

FAMINE DEFEATS PLAN FOR TRADE WITH THE SOVIET

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—Sir Robert Horne, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, in a speech at Glasgow today, said that the plan of trading with Russia had been defeated by the Russian famine and the anxiety of the extremists in Russia to spend gold on propaganda rather than on goods. Russia had nothing to give in exchange for goods. Sending goods to Russia was making them a present, and we were not in a position to make anybody presents.

Einstein Theory Discussed At Quest Society Meeting

With a gratifying attendance the Quest Society began the season yesterday afternoon at the Royal Asiatic Society hall with a lecture on the Einstein theory by Dr. Herbert Chatley.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. A. J. Hughes, who announced that the organisation's officers had been re-elected for the ensuing year. Dr. Chatley's talk, which preceded a discussion of his subject, was as follows:

"Towards the close of last year's session, this Society was favored by two lectures on 'Relativity' by Prof. Robertson. There was a great deal of interest shown in the subject but on the other hand it cannot be disguised that the majority were disappointed in the hopes which had been raised in them as to getting a definite idea of what the thing discussed really was. This experience in Shanghai is not peculiar and has occurred throughout the thinking world and at the present day the newspapers are still printing articles which show that the more serious journalists still have very little notion what the other is all about.

"Undoubtedly the association of ideas with the scientifically admitted modification of many of the commonest and most widely assumed beliefs as to matter, time and space, and in particular the reference to the 'fourth dimension,' is largely responsible for the publicity which Einstein has obtained. Still another feature is the publicity given to the confirmation of Einstein's predictions in the Allied countries immediately after the Great War, thus indicating that it was a matter which in the mind of the idealists was something which vastly transcended in importance the existing international hostility.

WHAT'S IT ABOUT

"What then is it all about?

"The speaker feels conscious of temerity in saying that this question may be answered simply, provided that the enquirer does not insist on too much precision, detail and proof.

"The answer is then as follows:

"All observations are relative and conditioned by motion. Man cannot obtain absolute notions of mass, dimensions and time, as those ideas are all mutually involved in each other. They are in particular affected by the fact of the velocity of light not being infinite, as is usually unconsciously assumed.

"All that Einstein has done is to introduce into all measurement corrections necessary on account of the limited velocity of light. His arguments are purely logical and mathematical. They have, in essence, been before the world for sixteen years and the greatest mathematicians have not succeeded in finding a fundamental flaw in them, and until they do find one the Einstein theory cannot be dropped as some would have us do. Moreover the results deduced provide in some respects a more truthful, that is, consistent account of physical facts and also a few minute theoretical predictions arising there from have been apparently verified.

CONCERNS HIGH VELOCITY

"It should here be stated that what we may term 'Einstein factors' are only of importance in those things where the velocities concerned are comparable, say more than one-tenth percent, with the velocity of light. As the latter figure is 186,000 miles—300,000 kilometers— per second, it will be seen that the theory is entirely concerned with the behavior of things with very high velocities.

"The stars (and their attendants) in space and the electrons (ultimate electrical particles) in matter have velocities of this order and are in consequence affected by Einstein factors. The electrons, being much faster than the stars, are the more affected of the two.

"Calculation and experiment show that ordinary or so called Euclidean geometry is not quite consistent with itself when applied to bodies moving with such rapidity. To outsiders, i.e., persons not moving with them, their shapes change, their masses change, their time relations change, but to insiders, i.e. persons moving with them, these changes are not apparent. Consequently to such insiders perfectly correct measurements, correct anywhere and at any time, are impossible.

"This is the principle of relativity.

OLD RULES PASSE

"Masses, i.e., quantities of matter, increase at high speeds. Energy of motion no longer obeys with exactitude the old rules and time itself is modified by reason of the corrections to be applied for the distance moved through by light in the interval of time concerned. No velocity can exceed that of light..

"Most remarkable of all, by considering the effect of all these changes upon gravity, it is found that the latter may be more consistently conceived as due to the peculiarities of the new Einstein geometry rather than to a mysterious form of energy existing throughout the universe. This new geometry differs, from the old in being fourth dimensional, the fourth measurement 'the others are length, breadth and thickness, but all four are interchangeable' being the distance moved through by light.

"Gravity is then said to be simply the result of a 'warp in space and it appears in consequence that light passing near heavy bodies such as the sun does not proceed in lines which are straight as conceived by ordinary geometry and that the universe as a whole may be finite although not bounded, much in the same way as the circumference of a circle is limited but has no end. Perhaps the simplest analogy is to suppose that the path of a beam of light from any star is an immense circle, and, since we are incapable of transcending in imagination an optical, that is light produced, idea of the universe, it follows that our conception of the universe is limited by such a circle.

CONCLUSIONS GIVEN

"What then are the practical conclusions as to the Einstein theory?

"(1) The old theories are unchanged except for those things having immense velocities, and then are slightly modified.

"(2) A more consistent idea is obtained of the universe and the rapidly moving particles of matter.

"(3) Light is slightly affected by gravity.

"(4) A previously unexplained peculiarity of the motion of the rapidly moving planet Mercury is explained.

"(5) In metaphysics, the old ideas of the absolute character of space and time are found to be incorrect and these two things are found to be inextricably connected.

"(6) A prospect is opened of remarkable discoveries in the behavior of the minuter particles of matter.

"(7) The problem of the infinity of space is shelved.

WHAT'S THE EFFECT?

"Can this affect the 'man in the street?' Not much, but there is the undeniable fact that practically every discovery in pure science has ultimately had the most unexpected developments in practice and there is no reason to suppose the Einstein theory to be any exception to this rule.

"Something has been made by journalists and philosophers of religious and philosophical associations with the relativity theory. Personally the speaker thought that the so called materialist significance of relativity was strongly adverse to such ideas. Rather than strengthening the basis of the pseudo-science called metaphysics, relativity abolishes its very foundations and rivets the bonds of determinism more firmly than ever."

PETROFF HOPEFUL FOR OUTCOME OF DAIREN PARLEY

Chita Is Prepared, However, He Says, To Appeal To Washington

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Oct. 13.—M. Petroff, the head of the Chita delegation at the Dairen conference, in an interview with a Japanese newspaper correspondent on Tuesday stated that the Russian delegates still hoped to reach a direct understanding with Japan, but failing this, have determined to present a formal appeal to the Pacific Conference at Washington. The foregoing is contained in a message that has been received in Peking from Dairen.

It is as yet too early, M. Petroff is quoted as having said, to assert that the Dairen negotiations have failed in spite of the fact that the seventeen counter-proposals recently offered by the Japanese are quite incompatible with the fixed policies of the Chita Government and if neither side will offer concessions, further negotiations, in M. Petroff's opinion, will be without purpose.

It is stated that the Chita Government's failure to reply to the counter-proposals of the Japanese is attributed to the delay caused by Chinese officials' interference with the Far Eastern Government's diplomatic dispatches.

AFRAID OF DAIREN

M. Petroff said that China from the beginning has regarded with suspicion the Dairen conference and has delayed diplomatic messages from Chita as long as five days and at times these messages have been mutilated.

M. Petroff denied that Chita has been actuated by the Moscow Soviet government in demanding the evacuation of the Japanese from Siberia, emphasising that the Chita government is quite independent of Moscow, even though the two governments might constitute one people and therefore be in accord.

The Japanese Legation at Peking, commenting upon M. Petroff's interview, pointed out that the principle of the Japanese evacuation from Siberia already had been determined upon at the Colonial conference held in June, and Japanese opinion in general is that the time has arrived to carry out the policy then decided upon.

JAPAN IN DOUBT

Peking, Oct. 10.—According to official reports received in Peking Mr. Petroff, finding that there was but little possibility of the Japanese Government agreeing to accept the withdrawal of the Japanese forces from Siberia as a preliminary to further negotiations at Dairen, suggested that the conference should be transferred to Chita.

It is not thought that Japan will agree to this suggestion, but a transfer might be made to Harbin, if that center were suggested as an alternative to Chita. In the meanwhile the Japanese Government is considering the recall of its delegation, and the present position is one of deadlock.

Admiral Line Sets 20-Day Record For New York Shipment

Keystone State Delivers Silk After Fast Pacific Run

Silk shipments from Shanghai to New York in twenty days is the record which has just been hung up by the Admiral line in conjunction with American railroads, according to cabled advices from the line's Seattle offices.

The silk shipment left Shanghai on the Keystone State on September 16, and was delivered in Chicago on October 5, at 11 a.m. and at New York at 1:45 p.m. the next day, making just twenty days for the shipment to go through.

The Silver State of the same line first made the 20-day record, Shanghai to New York, on shipments of silk. That vessel, which left this port August 17 arrived at Seattle at noon September 2, at Chicago in the evening of September 5, and in New York shortly after midnight September 6, a trifle more than 20 days out of Shanghai.

The Admiral line also advises that the new Shipping Board steamer the Pinetree State has been assigned to the Far Eastern Service, to replace the Bay State, which has been set back in the schedule, to a later sailing. The Pinetree State leaves Seattle December 10 and the Bay State January 7. With these two new vessels the Admiral line will have in the Far Eastern service seven new shipping board vessels.

WHY SPEND HUGE SUM FOR ONLY 1 LONE JAPANESE

(Dalta News Agency)

Chita, Oct. 10.—In connection with the reported uneasiness of Japanese residents in Nikolsk-Ussurisk in view of the impending evacuation of Japanese forces from the Maritime Province, the Courier writes that if the Japanese militarists would attempt to justify the delay of evacuation on the pretext of protecting the life and property of Japanese citizens, it would prove Japan's insincerity.

"What economic consideration could Japan advance for maintaining her troops on Russian soil, in order to protect her citizens, when it costs her 100,000 yen for protecting one citizen annually? As far as the Japanese residents are concerned after the evacuation, their conditions will be similar to any citizen of other foreign countries residing in Russian territory.

To prove this, it is only necessary to point out that other foreigners besides Japanese are living and conducting their business in the Far Eastern Republic unmolested, without an army of 10,000 of their nationals for protecting their lives and business. The only difference between the Japanese and other foreign residents is that the former are part of the general scheme called intervention.

"Therefore, it is natural that when this scheme comes to an end, its supporters and unofficial interventionists of the class of civil residents, barbers, laundrymen and others are dissatisfied and puzzled."

STYLES HAVE CHANGED IN MOTOR CARS

Formerly it was a seasonable affair with the open touring car for the summer and the closed limousine for the winter. In fact, the owner who could not afford both had to lay his up until the return of Spring.

To-day, the closed car is the all-year car. It's used summer and winter: night and day: rain or shine.

The top is protection against sun as well as storm and the sides and back can be either raised to exclude the bad weather or lowered to admit the breeze. The owner of a never has to give the weather a thought for he is equipped to meet all kinds from a typhoon to the rarest day in June.

LORD CECIL TO AID GREY; WILL OPPOSE LIBERALS

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—A letter from Lord Robert Cecil has been published supporting Viscount Grey's criticisms of the Government at Berwick on Oct. 10.

It says:

"We want an Administration which will have a clear and definite program and will pursue the even tenor of its way undisturbed by passing gusts of popular excitement."

He suggests that Viscount Grey would be the man to head such an Administration. Lord Robert Cecil is prepared to co-operate with Viscount Grey in spite of the fact that he is a Liberal and urges all, who think similarly, to join in an effort to restore to Britain an Administration which will give security at home and command confidence abroad.

Hongkew Counterfeiters Get Prison Sentences

Penalties Imposed In Mixed Court Range From One Month To Ten Years

Nineteen members of the Hongkew gang of counterfeiters were found guilty and sentenced to prison terms ranging from 10 years to one month in the Mixed Court before American Assessor Allman and Magistrate Tsang yesterday.

Ah Ching, the ring-leader of the gang, was sentenced to 10 years, Dzung Nuyuen, Dzung Kyien, and Li Yung, his principal assistants, were sentenced to three years each, and fifteen others were given one month. A thirteen-year old boy who was used as a messenger was discharged and cautioned.

All the defendants are to be expelled from the Settlement at the expiration of their sentences. The Court ordered the plant confiscated, together with the bad coins and bills, apparently the proceeds of sale of counterfeit coins, and complimented the police upon their discovery of the scheme at its inception.

COINS NEARLY PERFECT

The Hongkew counterfeiters were arrested in a raid on a house at 153 A North Kiangse Road on September 27, just a few days after the plant started turning out twenty cent pieces that were so perfect an analysis had to be made to determine them spurious. Only a few of the coins got into circulation but those that did were so good that they passed even the eagle-eyed money changers.

Mr. P. Goldring, for the defense, who had in previous hearing made the defense that the coins were being made for the Canton government, changed tactics today and put four of the men on the stand to testify that the other sixteen defendants knew nothing of the counterfeiting and were employed as button-makers. The four men asserted that one Fung was the master of the shop and that he escaped when the raid was made.

All four testified that there were only ten engaged in actually making coins and that seven of the ten escaped. Detective Sergeant Conduit, who was one of the officers who conducted the raid, declared that none escaped, and that the twenty arrested were all engaged in turning out disks to be used in the making of coins.

NAMES AH CHING

When the defense closed Mr. R. C. Faithful, for the prosecution, put four Kompo men, who had previously made statements to the police, on the stand. Under questioning by Assessor Allman the first break in the defense came when one of the Kompo men admitted that he had been hired by Ah Ching, and that as far as he knew Ah Ching was the head of the plant.

Several humorous incidents cropped out during Mr. Faithful's cross-examination of the Kompo men. One of the men denied knowing that they were making coin a few feet from where he was working on the plea "that he was from the country and didn't know anything."

Another, when asked if he did not know that he was assisting in the commission of a crime, gave a sickly smile and replied, through an interpreter, "that he was only a country clod-hopper and didn't know much."

CLAIMS LEADERS ESCAPED

Mr. Goldring in closing asked the court to free the sixteen defendants as they were not guilty of any wrongdoing and asked that light sentences be given the four men who admitted knowing of the coining operations, on the plea that they were mere tools of the real ringleaders "the master minds," who escaped.

Mr. Faithful in declaring that all the men were guilty complimented the police on the clever catch. He asserted that there was no button making machinery in the house and that coin making was the only intention of the gang, citing the secrecy which was maintained, and the fact that none of the men were allowed to leave the house at any time, as proof. He admitted the ignorance of the majority of the men in any wrongdoing and was willing—that their sentence be light, but asked the limit for the ring-leaders.

Y.W.C.A. WORKERS MAKE PROGRESS IN BUDGET DRIVE

Are Optimistic Of Raising Sum Of $15,000 By October 26

The team leaders of the Y.W.C.A. finance campaign which is being conducted in Shanghai this week and next are busily making new friends and acquaintances for the Association. Owing to the increasing opportunities which this organisation is affording Chinese girls and young women, there is much enthusiasm over this year's finance campaign. The workers are meeting with prompt response from contributors and subscribers, and it is felt that with the continued effort which all who are interested in the campaign are making, the year's budget of $15,000 will be reached by October 26, which is the date set for the closing of the campaign. There will be a rally of the team leaders in the local Y.W.C.A., 11A Quinsan Road today at which time the first reports of the campaign will be made.

The Young Women's Christian Association in Shanghai has at the present time three prominent overseas members as its guests. They are Miss Margaret E. Burton, Miss Mabel Cratty and Miss Caroline B. Dow. Miss Burton arrived in the city Sunday night from Peking where she has been attending the Union Medical College opening festivities. Miss Burton and Miss Cratty are traveling as members of the China Educational Commission of the Foreign Missions' Conference of North America. These three women are closely allied with the Young Women's Christian Association, Miss Cratty being general secretary of the National Y.W.C.A. in the United States, Miss Dow dean of the National Y.W.C.A. Training School in New York city, and Miss Burton executive of the department of Conventions and Conferences of the National Young Women's Christian Association.

Miss Burton is widely known among the Chinese girls who have studied in the United States as she has taken a personal interest in each girl, assisting each to adapt herself to the new life of the American people. Many a homesick Chinese girl has regained her courage to remain at college through confiding her cares and fears to Miss Burton. Miss Burton has traveled through Japan, Korea and China with the Educational Commission which is studying religious education in these countries. Now the members of the commission have gone to various educational centers in China to observe the work done in each section. Miss Burton will remain in Shanghai during this week and will then go to Canton, where her headquarters will be during her stay in South China.

Havelock and Mr. Douglas B. Mile, who were invited by Mr. Krassin to institute an investigation of the Petrograd harbor and its approaches, have published a report of their findings.

According to the report the entrance into the Petrograd harbor is not only free from danger for English ships but the technical measures which have been taken are very good. The floating docks, the rails and the cranes are all in good order. The necessary labor is available and there is a ample space for storing cargoes.

tion of all the Southern provinces and later of the provinces in the Yangtsze Valley by Canton.

Twenty thousand Canton troops are said to be ready for the coming expedition, and Canton has, it is stated, set aside funds for propaganda purposes among the Northern troops. Peking, however, is not uneasy about Sun's proposed campaign, as officials here are confident that Wu Pei-fu would, if necessary, defeat the Cantonese just as quickly and thoroughly as he beat the Hunanese and Szechuenese.

Furthermore, the chances that Chen Chun-ming, the only real fighting general in the South, will end the Cantonese expedition are slight, indeed, Sun's plan is likely, so Peking thinks, to create a split in Cantonese ranks and thus in the end redound to the advantage of the North.

Mrs. Gordon-West's Opinion of "Kirby's Sea-Sick Cure"

Park Lane,
February 4, 1912.

Messrs. COLLINS & ROSS,
154 Bermondsey St., London.

DEAR SIRS,

Until my last voyage to New York I dreaded sea travelling. Hitherto I had been so susceptible to sea-sickness that I could not leave my bed during the whole of the voyage. Even when travelling by train I have been obliged to lie down.

Before leaving for New York, I was persuaded to take "KIRBY'S SEA-SICK CURE" and was surprised to find that I not only avoided sea-sickness, but was entirely free from nausea of any kind. We had very rough seas during the greater part of the voyage, but I took all my meals in the saloon, and never felt better.

I shall never travel without the cure in future. You should make the remedy widely known, for it will be a boon to thousands.

Yours gratefully,
(Signed) MARY GORDON-WEST.

BASKETBALL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE TO ORGANISE LEAGUE AT MEETING MONDAY

Several New Entrants Are Announced; Games Will Be Played At Rowing Club And "Y" Floors; Schedule Will Start Early In November

Judging from present indications, the Foreign Basketball League for 1921-2 is going to be even more successful than it was last year. It is already definitely assured that teams will be entered representing the Shanghai American School, the Public School, Shanghai College faculty, Rowing Club, American Trading Company and the Standard Oil. It is expected that Anderson and Meyer, the Asia Bank, and Fearon and Daniel will also turn out aggregations besides probably one or two teams of independent players.

The next meeting of the Executive Committee of the League is to be held Monday, October 17 and it is essential that before that time definite application be made by all organisations and hongs expecting to have teams. Each application should be accompanied by the names of all players in each hong who wish to participate. This will enable the committee to distribute the free-lance representatives among the different groups so as to make them all of equal strength.

In order that the uniforms of the various teams may not conflict as to colors, each group is requested to state its choice. The Standard Oil and American Trading Company teams have already selected theirs and the latter outfit are ordering suits from America. Each organisation should appoint some one individual to act as their representative for the time being so that these delegates can in conjunction with the officers of the League make all necessary arrangements.

It is certain that a large number of first-class independent players are going to be available to fill in any gaps among the other teams. Men who played last year but who will not be eligible for any particular hong team include Bartlett, Roberts, Gold, Porterfield, Hisken, Johnson, Gray, Steele, Pettit, C. J. Smith, Irele, McHatton, etc.

It is urgently requested that all teams who expect to enter as well as all individual players who desire to participate send in their names before Monday to K. W. Irle, American-Oriental Banking Corporation, R. B. Nichols, American Trading Co., or Dr. C. G. Irons, 15 Nanking Road. It is probable that the Rowing Club and Y.M.C.A. floors will be used for the games this year and it is hoped to complete all the preliminary arrangements as soon as possible so that the first games may be scheduled for sometime in November.

GIANTS WIN SEVENTH GAME; TAKE LEAD IN WORLD SERIES; FEAR BLOOD POISON FOR RUTH

Score Was 3-1; In Tuesday's Game Meusel, Snyder And Pfister Hit Home Runs; Series Stands Four For The Giants And Three For Yanks

The New York Giants are in a fair way of winning the 1921 World's Series baseball title by virtue of their win yesterday over the New York American team. Yesterday's telegram is very meagre in details of the play, but it gives the final score, and the lead in the Series to the Nationals.

Ruth, the Yankee's dependable slugger is still out of the game in consequence of injuries sustained in the first contest. His absence must weaken the Americans considerably.

Later details received of the former games of the series show that the big Babe was a mountain of batting and base stealing strength to the Americans. He drove in one of the Yanks three runs in the first game; he stole second and third in the second game and scored one the Americans winning runs.

In the third game, after getting a single Ruth was forced to retire with an injured leg sustained in sliding in the first game, and, also with an abscess on the arm. He rapped out his sixtieth Homer for the year in the fourth game. There was no body on. His homer however scored half of his teams runs.

Ruth played in the fifth game, but in the sixth he dropped out again and is still missing in the lineup.

New York, Oct. 13.—The New York Giants defeated the Yankees in the seventh World's Series game played Wednesday at the Polo Ground before 40,000 people, giving the National League team a one-game lead in the series. The score was 3-1.

Babe Ruth was missing from the Yankee lineup and doctors fear blood poisoning in his right arm which became infected following an abrasion sustained while sliding to third base in the opening game.

In the Tuesday game, which was won by the Giants, 8-5, Meusel, Snyder and Pfister hit home runs.

The series now stands four games for the Giants and three for the Yankees.

SHOOTING VICTIM SMUGGLED ARMS, POLICE DECLARE

No Charges Will Be Filed Yet Against Assailant Of Mr. Pavitch

M. Mioka, Japanese held following the pistol affray on Avenue Joffre last Saturday when M. Pavitch was seriously wounded, will not be charged by Japanese authorities until it is definitely known whether or not the injured man, now at St. Mary's Hospital, will die. There was no change in Pavitch's condition yesterday and although there has been no sign of peritonities following an operation performed Saturday, doctors cannot state as yet whether the wound will prove fatal.

French police assert that the shooting followed an argument over an arms transaction and it is stated that Pavitch sold firearms of various calibers, keeping samples at his home on Avenue Joffre where the shooting occurred.

Illegal importation of firearms is greater than at any period in recent years, according to police and customs men, and huge quantities are being smuggled into Shanghai despite every precaution on the part of the customs authorities. These come from Italy, France and Germany and are sold here at great profit. Few of them remain in Shanghai as they bring high prices from Chinese coming here from remote provinces, particularly Szechuen.

SHANGHAI BOY WINS HIGH ARMY POST AT PEKING

Capt. Woodrow W. Woodbridge To Be Language Officer At The Capital

Capt. Woodrow W. Woodbridge, who is a former Shanghai youth and son of Dr. S. I. Woodbridge, prominent mission worker and Editor of the Chinese Christian Intelligencer, has achieved the distinction of being one of two American army officers who have received special appointment as language officers and while acquiring a knowledge of Chinese will serve at Peking for the coming four years as assistant Military Attaches of the American Legation.

Through action taken recently by the War Department, two army officers were to be appointed to Tokio and two to Peking to learn the languages of the countries. The appointment was decided by competitive examination and out of a class of 300 applicants for the Peking post Captains Woodbridge and Baldwin were named.

Captain Woodbridge received his early school training in the Shanghai public schools under Mr. G. M. Billings, then Head Master after which he graduated from Westminster College of the state of Missouri. When the Mexican crisis arose he was a member of the National Guard of Missouri and went with it to the Mexican border where he saw service under General Pershing and then went into the regular army when the National Guard was absorbed by it. In the army he saw service in France and served with the American Army of Occupation in the Rhine area. He was transferred to the Peking post while serving as Captain of the 12th U.S. Artillery at Fort Travis, Texas.

Captain Woodbridge is a cousin of former President Wilson.

PROF. HOBBS SAYS ISLANDS ARE NOT BEING FORTIFIED

(Reuter's Service)

Manila, Oct. 5 (by mail).—Professor William Herbert Hobbs of the Geology Department of the University of Michigan, who has been investigating geological formations in the Pacific Islands, sailed from Manila last Monday aboard the U.S.S. Bittern to continue his researches in the Dutch East Indies.

Professor Hobbs, who is a close friend of Major-General Wood, said before leaving Manila that he was deeply grateful to the Japanese Government for placing a war vessel at his disposal during his trip through the Carolines and other Japanese possessions. He said that the Japanese commander had placed every facility for investigation at his disposal, and that the officials at various ports had cordially co-operated with him.

Incidentally, Professor Hobbs took occasion to deny reports that the Japanese were fortifying the former German possessions.

"No restraint was placed on my movement at any time," Professor Hobbs said, "and I am in a position to deny the stories of fortifications, which exist only in the minds of alarmists."

Professor Hobbs route from Manila will take him eventually to the Nicobar and Andaman Islands, and he will return to the United States by way of Europe in 1922. His object in part is to study oceanic mountain formations, which, as he expressed it "are in their infancy and have not been affected by erosion as in the case of land formations." It is estimated that he may head a much more elaborate expedition later.

American Loan Is Quickly Refused

(Reuter's Service)

Sydney, October 12.—The Americans are making a bold bid for further investments in Australia. A prominent American is reported to have said that America is prepared to lend New South Wales an extra £100,000,000 in the event of difficulty with London with regard to renewals.

It is argued here that the investment of £100,000,000 of American money in Australia would increase Australia's security in the event of trouble in the Far East inasmuch as it would force public feeling in America and would in that event be more likely to compel the United States Government to give Australia the most effective naval protection possible.

Wellington, N. Z., Oct. 12.—The Prime Minister, Mr. Massey, today informed a deputation that the Government was placing an additional loan of £500,000 on the London market.

JAPAN STILL IS IN TSINAN WITH 200 AS GUARDS

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsingtao, Oct. 11.—The Japanese continue to hold their position of military, political and economic dominance in Shantung, according to your correspondent in Tsingtao. The Japanese occupation of the Shantung Railway, of Tsingtao, and the leased territories remained unchanged during the past year, extensive barracks, with a wireless station, are still occupied at Tsinan, where a force of some two hundred men is maintained; military police still control the stations along the railway and take excursions into territory off the railway from time to time in investigation of cases affecting Japanese, and detachments of soldiers are on duty at convenient intervals along the line.

Japanese advisers still are in the officers of Tuchun, Police and, perhaps, in other bureaux; they are little seen or heard publicly, they probably do not have any considerable influence, but they are in constant touch with what transpires in the yamens. The employment of a Japanese adviser in the office of the Tuchun is denied by officials; though such an adviser did exist, but his continued presence there cannot be verified.

It is interesting to note that the military party of Japan is apparently unwilling to entrust matters in the provincial captial to the Japanese Consul-General, but a military officer of the rank of Colonel is attached to the Consulate-General as military attache and it is understood that many cases are settled by the Chinese officials with him directly instead of through the Consul-General.

The Japanese have maintained their military occupation and control with its political and economic significance. There has been less public complaint lately of further aggression and oppression with respect to Chinese sovereignty and rights. In some quarters the Chinese have interpreted this modification of policy as a desire to win over the Chinese to a more friendly attitude toward the Japanese in China generally, but this view is not generally held.

Whether or not there has been any real change in the sentiment in Japan, abundant reason for the less aggressive attitude of the Japanese in Shantung during 1920 may be found in the widespread anti-Japanese agitation and boycott, which seriously affected Japanese business interests. Also has come the focusing of world-wide interest on the Japanese and their methods and ambitions in Shantung, and the fall from power of the Anfu clique with the accession of a government at Peking less inclined to bend easily to Japanese influence.

There has been less complaint lately of Japanese abuse and oppression of the people in the districts adjoining the railway; the agitation against the Japanese opium and morphia trade has somewhat subsided; less frequent charges are made of Japanese instigation of the bandit bands in Shantung. It is not suggested that there has not been ground for complaint on these subjects, but the occasion therefore has been less frequent and there has evidently been some restraint and control exercised by the Japanese military to this end.

Ukrainia War Is Followed By Calm

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Oct. 9.—Mr. Levitzkij, representative of the Ukrainian Soviet Government in Prague, has made the following statement to the Prague journalists regarding the present situation in Soviet Ukrainia:

"There is at present no rising in Ukrainia. Since the end of the three years' civil war and the victory at the front, the workers and peasants of Ukrainia have entered upon the work of peaceful reconstruction. At present there are defense groups of peasants in the villages. The peasants have developed a great initiative in the struggle against the bandits.

"Concerning the bourgeois refugees abroad, the Ukrainian Soviet Congress has decided to grant amnesty to all those who left the country during the civil war if they pledge themselves to become loyal citizens of the Ukrainian Soviet Republic. There have been no reprisals against the returning refugees.

"The Commissariat of Foreign Trade has placed raw materials to the value of 75 million gold rubles at the disposal of the All-Ukrainian Trade Union Council so that Ukrainia has at the present moment a considerable quantity of goods available for barter with foreign countries. The export of these goods is being prepared for by way of the Black Sea and the Danube River.

"The Soviet Government encourages the development of national culture. Besides primary schools, high schools and universities have been opened in Ukrainia."

Greek Gets Fourteen Years For Murder Of His Wife

Theodore V. Georgacopoulos, found guilty by Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Yui of the murder of his wife, was sentenced to fourteen years' imprisonment yesterday afternoon in the Mixed Court.

When judgment had been given and translated and the Court had risen, the defendant, a haggard figure, sank with a bewildered expression into a seat beside the dock. As the various witnesses and acquaintances who happened to be in court gathered around him, he called excitedly for the interpreter and asked that the sentence be explained to him once more. When the interpreter had told him his punishment he became once more the silent, shrinking figure which he has appeared throughout the trial and still wearing a dazed look was conducted from the court room by the police officials in charge.

The last hearing of the case was devoted by Mr. L. K. Kentwell, for the defense, to the calling of medical and other evidence in support of the plea of insanity instituted in Georgacopoulos' behalf. Drs. A. C. Bryson and Julian Petit testified that they had found the defendant's case to be one of general paralysis of the insane, during crises of which disease he would be irresponsible. Two other witnesses whose acquaintance with the accused dates back some eighteen years told of incidents tending to show his mental unsoundness and his addiction to the use of morphine.

In summing up Mr. Kentwell said that he would leave the medical aspects of the case to the Court as shown by the testimony of doctors called by both defense and prosecution. The Court, he submitted, must be convinced of his client's mental derangement and, such being his condition, it was impossible that he could be found guilty of the crime of murder, since the act was not voluntary or that of a man in possession of his faculties.

ASKS FOR CONVICTION

Mr. R. C. Faithfull, prosecuting for the police, asked for a conviction and declared that if the defendant had attained the physical and mental condition attributed to him at the time of the crime it was as a result of his own voluntary continuance of the use of drugs. Society was not safe so long as such persons were allowed to go about uncontroled.

When the concluding argument had been heard the Court retired, returning after a brief time with the verdict of guilty.

In giving judgment the Assessor said:

"Theodore V. Georgacopoulos, we find you guilty of the wilful murder of your wife. We cannot accept the plea put forward by your counsel that at the time you killed your wife you were insane, that you did not know what you were doing or that you did not know that you were doing wrong. Everything, on the contrary goes to show that you had carefully planned the murder and that the killing was deliberate and premeditated.

"We have the fact that before the murder—about two days before—you went to a Japanese shop and bought a long Japanese fish knife, and we have the fact that this knife was found at the scene of the murder. There is only one conclusion that we can come to and that is that you bought the knife with the intention of killing your wife. We have the probability that you produced the knife with the intention of killing your wife but, in the struggle, the knife fell and, in order to carry out your intention, you had to throttle her.

ACTS OF SANE MAN

"We have, further, the fact that immediately you saw you had been seen by the three small boys you got up and ran away, that you jumped into the ferry boat and made signs to the ferry man to pull away from the bank quickly. None of these are the acts of an insane man. They point clearly to the fact that you knew what you had done was wrong and that it was your intention to escape from justice.

"We have further the fact that within a few hours of the murder you prepared a careful statement with regard to your doings on the day of the murder and that the statement was absolutely false.

"On the other side we have to take into consideration your previous history. It is a history of mental degeneracy culminating as doctors would describe it in a condition of general paralysis of the insane. We are prepared to take into consideration the fact that probably but for this process of mental degeneration you might not have formed the intention of killing your wife. We are, fortunately, under the Chinese Criminal Code, not bound to inflict the death penalty on a conviction of murder, but we are not prepared to deal with you too lightly with what we consider to have been a deliberate and premeditated crime. We therefore sentence you to fourteen years' imprisonment."

Technical School In China, Harvard Aim

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, October 11.—The Harvard Club of North China held its Autumn meeting at the home of its president F. S. Chien, '10. The meeting was proceded by a Chinese dinner which was attended by about thirty members and guests, including ten ladies.

After dinner the business meeting was held, and the following officers for the coming year were elected: President, Luther M. Jee, '10; Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. Char, of the Peking Union Medical College; additional members of the executive committee, E. W. Mills, '02, for Peking and T. D. Chao, '09, for Tientsin. Mr. Jee is the second Chinese to become president of the club, Mr. F. S. Chien having been its first Chinese president.

It was decided at the meeting to support the Harvard-Technology plan for the establishment of a technical school in China, and Messrs. Jee, F. J. Deane and Char were appointed to serve on the joint committee for the development of this plan.

The resignation of Mr. R. A. Burr as chairman of the Harvard-Yale-Princeton committee for the establishment of an international university club in Peking was received and accepted.

Albania May Be Made Free State

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—Diplomatic correspondents assert that as the result of pressure by the League of Nations, the long-contested dispute with regard to the Albanian frontiers is nearing a settlement on the basis of full recognition of the independence of Albania. The settlement follows roughly the lines of the 1913 frontiers, and involves the evacuation by the Serbs of a considerable portion of the territory which they have occupied since 1918.

WRANGEL'S MEN PHYSICAL WRECKS

(Dalta News Agency)

Harbin, Oct. 10.—Although the negotiations at Dairen between Japan and Russia, have not been officially resumed, private exchange of views is being carried on between the members of the delegations on some important questions.

At the invitation of the Administration of the South-Manchuria Railway, the Russian delegation has inspected the industrial establishments of the railway as well as of private manufacturers who are preparing for trade with the Far Eastern Republic as soon as a trade agreement is signed.

The appearance of Wrangel's men who have arrived at Vladivostok is terrible. Most of them are drug users, physical and moral wrecks. They are all anxious to get home and their attitude towards the Merkuloff government is negative. They have but little knowledge of the situation in Russia.

Harbin, Oct. 10.—The two Falko brothers, who have been charged with counterfeiting money and who have been twice acquitted by the Chinese courts at Harbin, have been transferred from Mukden to Peking for further trial. The Mission of the Far Eastern Republic at Peking has requested the Chinese authorities to give it duplicates of the indictment and all materials in connection with the case.

Failure To Press For Macao Reply Held As Weak Sign

Canton, Oct. 7.—That the government does not press the Portuguese for a speedy reply to the four demands presented some time ago as a basis for the settlement of the recent Macao incident, is considered by a majority of the people, especially the natives of Heungshan district, as a sign of weakness on the part of the Chinese Government, according to Canton press opinion.

On this account, the people are agitating to press the government to have the Macao incident speedily settled once and for all time, so as to avoid future misunderstandings. At a meeting of a newly organised body calling itself the "People's Diplomatic Relations Society" which was founded immediately following the Macao fracas, several steps were proposed to deal with Macao, among which are the following:

1. To urge the entire Chinese population in Macao to leave that city.
2. To urge the natives of Heungshan district (the district where Macao is situated) not to sell vegetables and food supplies to the people in Macao.
3. To cut off Macao's water supply from Chinese territory.
4. To petition the government to exercise its authority over those Chinese in Macao who are gamblers and opium smokers
5. To petition the government to open the port of Heungchow in the vicinity of Macao.

F. E. R. MAY SEND OWN DELEGATES

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 11.—Official representatives of the Far Eastern Republic will not be admitted to the Washington Conference, according to reports received here today from the United States. On the other hand it is learned from the same sources that the American Government will not place obstacles in the way of citizens of the Far Eastern Republic who may desire to enter American territory in a private capacity.

In this connection it is considered probable that a number of prominent citizens of the Far Eastern Republic will visit America in the near future and carry on at Washington discussions that may lead to a trade agreement between the two countries at a later date.

Shanghai, October 13, 1921

Spot bar silver was up 1/8d. and forward 1/4d. in London yesterday. There being a holiday in New York no quotations have been received from there but the London-New York cross rate as wired by London is 385½. The only changes of importance today in the official quotations were a drop in the Gold Dollar rate to 78½ and a rise in the Franc rate to 1090. The market at the opening this morning was on the firm side when business in Sterling was done as high as 4/2¼ for October delivery and 4/1½ for December and in Gold Dollars at $1 for October and 79½ for December. Later on in the morning the rates eased off, speculators being rather good buyers and just before the tiffin interval there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 4/1⅝ for October and 4/0⅝ for December. In the afternoon, however, rates firmed up again and the market closed steady with sellers of Sterling at 4/1⅞ for October delivery and 4/0⅞ for December with Gold Dollars on a corresponding basis. London quotes the silver market as steady with China a moderate buyer and as long as the present money stringency continues it would appear unlikely that there would be any material drop in rates here.

HONGKONG SHARES

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor of Hongkong write as follows in their weekly share report dated Hongkong, October 7.

We have had rather a quiet market during the week, and a good many stocks have been affected by the rapid rise in exchange.

Hongkong Banks (old shares) have had a further decline and were done as low as $685, but have firmed up again on exchange dropping at 1½d. yesterday. New shares, fully paid, have been in fair request with few if any coming out.

The Shanghai Market has been very quiet with a slight decline generally.

Rubber continues stagnant.

Hongkong Banks.—(Old shares) After being done at $685, are now wanted at $700. New shares could probably be placed at $685.

Cantons.—Are in demand at $405.

Unions.—Owing to the rise in exchange, have changed hands at $218 and $219, and close with buyers at $220.

Hongkong Docks.—Have been the medium of a fair business and close with buyers at $192½.

China Sugars.—Have had a smart rise, and after being done as high as $210, close rather quieter with sales at $203.

Cements.—Have also risen, and close with buyers at $18.60 for cash and $19 October.

Hongkong Lands.—Have eased off somewhat, and could probably be obtained at $207.

Humphreys.—Are steady at $10¾.

Shanghai Docks.—Are slightly firmer, and have been done at Tls. 123.

Shell Transports.—Have declined slightly and have been the medium of some business round about 90/-.

EXCHANGE MARKET

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending October 12.

Exchange: The London price of silver after dropping to 41¼d. has recovered to 42½d. i. e. ⅜d. lower than last week. Our rate for T/T on London followed silver and went to 3/11d., but has since recovered to 4/1d. which is now only 1¼d. under the parity of silver. Cash is still in demand, but the premium over official quotations is easier and at the close only about 4/2½d. was offering. The market is steady for the earlier deliveries and weak forward. Exports appear to be at a standstill.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 22,560,000, a decrease of Tls. 1,716,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $22,170,000, a decrease of $530,000.

Estimated value in Tls. 38,522,000 as against Tls. 54,275,000 held at this time last year.

Dr. Waddell And Greater Shanghai

SHANGHAI is host today to Dr. J. A. L. Waddell, dean of international engineers, and most famous bridge building genius in the world.

The visit of the noted expert is particularly timely inasmuch as the International Committee of Engineers is about to begin investigation of possible improvements in the Shanghai harbor.

Whether or not the committee recommends the development of a deep harbor at Woosung, or at Yangtsze Cape, it is certain to recognise the imperative need of a bridge over the Whangpoo to permit Shanghai's maximum development as an ocean terminal.

Dr. Waddell's presence in Shanghai is therefore a golden opportunity for the Whangpoo Conservancy Board to benefit by his advice. Eventually a bridge expert will have to survey the situation before the project can go forward.

Dr. Waddell has already done great service to China by his minority report on the Yellow River bridge project, and by his recommendations regarding the crossings of the Yangtsze at Hankow and Nanking. He is now enroute to Peking, preparatory to his departure for America. His readiness to serve in the past suggests that he would willingly stay his departure in order to supplement the findings of the harbor committee in Shanghai, if such an invitation were extended to him.

The need of a bridge over the Whangpoo has become more and more pressing with the increase of commerce in Shanghai. The long line of wharves on the Pootung side have no rail connections. The traffic congestion in the business center, the high rentals, the lack of factory sites and room for residential expansion are but a few of the problems which would be solved by the building of a bridge. The vacant land across the river is merely waiting the construction of such a bridge to become a valuable district for the city already bursting its bounds.

The qualifications of Dr. Waddell are beyond question. Perhaps no engineers living today, and certainly none in the Far East, is so well equipped to make an economic study of suitable locations for the bridge, to recommend the most adaptable type, and estimate the cost on the bases of current prices.

Dr. Waaddell's handbook of bridge engineering is recognised as the classic of its kind. For five years he spent eighty hours a week in its preparation, and spent thousands of dollars in perfecting the designs. Nearly every bridge constructed within the last few years in the western hemisphere has been constructed along the lines of the designs laid down in Dr. Waddell's text book. His latest publication, The Economics of Bridge Construction, has just been reviewed by THE CHINA PRESS by Mr. Hans Berents. No engineer, living or dead, has been so greatly honored as he, by engineering societies of all nations, and heads of governments.

Another Shanghai problem in which Dr. Waddell's advice would be invaluable is that of rapid transit. For years various schemes have been formulated to relieve the congestion on Nanking Road, and in other ways supply the need of quick transportation to the outlying residential districts. The one most favored is a system of elevated railways.

The type of building prevalent in Shanghai makes the construction of an elevated railway possible at minimum cost. Mr. W. J. Williams has proposed a route extending from the south station along the Bund and to Yangtszepoo, and out Great Western Road to Jessfield station. Mr. Powell's route lies from Jessfield station to the Bund, a circuit to Yangtszepoo, and back by way of Thibet Road to the south station. A third line is suggested by Mr. Berents from Siccawei station by way of the native city to the south station, thence across the Whangpoo by the proposed bridge and up and down the river on the Pootung side.

Dr. Waddell engineered the Northwestern Elevated, the Union Loop Elevated and similar lines in Chicago, and for a long time acted as advisory engineer to elevated railway companies in America. His advice on the rapid transit projects would do much to clarify the situation, which is as yet very little understood in Shanghai.

The future of Shanghai as a port depends upon the solution of such problems as the Whangpoo bridge and rapid transit within the city. The visit of a distinguished engineer should be the occasion of obtaining expert advice upon those problems. Dr. Waddell's presence in China is therefore a golden opportunity for promoters of the Greater Shanghai.

JIGGS AS A JOURNALIST

Mutt and Jeff had combined forces with the intention of publishing a bright and snappy evening paper to be called The Twinkling Star. The two well known characters were on the look out for big features. They were successful in getting Mrs. Jiggs' brother to write a series of articles on "Free Board and Lodging at the Government's Expense." Mrs. Jiggs was given a free hand with the Society Page. Little Jimmy was engaged as an express messenger boy. Special paragraphs on "Cellars and Their Contents" were to be supplied by Dinty Moore, and a real thriller was promised by Foug. Darebanks.

Everything promised "merry and bright," but the tragedy came about in the most unexpected way. Mutt had 'phoned Mrs. Jiggs, and given her an assignment which took her away from New York to Boston for some weeks.

Mr. Jiggs visited the offices of Mutt and Jeff, and offered to pay the wages and expenses of Mrs. Jiggs if the Twinkling Star publishers would order their Society Editor to go to, and report, the small town doings of Alaska.

Mutt readily agreed, and it was then that Jeff made the fatal suggestion in the following historic words; The Twinkling Star is going to punch the reading public on the nasal organ hard; but we want still another feature. We must add a picture page in which all the celebrated beauties of the stage and beach will appear with appropriate biographies."

At this Mr. Jiggs generously offered himself for the editorship of this feature without remuneration. He was placed on the pay roll—at his quoted figure—and told to cover the Summer resorts.

Jiggs started on his journalistic career full of pleasurable anticipation—and now it only remains for me to give his series as written by himself.

The Peaches of Palm Beach

(By Jiggs)

"Where are the prettiest girls to be found?" The question, as far as I am concerned, is settled.

"I've found it—and them!

"Palm Beach is at present bathed in Sunshine. The bouncing blue billows beat blissfully upon the beautiful beach. Here are shoals of girls—scores of merry mermaids displaying any amount of wonderful womanhood.

"As I seek to interview one beatific blonde, who is reclining gracefully on a rooky ledge allowing the sun to embrace her perfectly modelled limbs; and as I note the dark flashing eyes, the hair like burnished gold streamers being caressed by the gentle zephyrs, I know, yea, I know this, this is the place for me. . . . ."

The Hero Argues With The Novelist

Jacob's Ladder. By E. Phillips Oppenheim. Little, Brown and Co..

One may imagine Mr. Oppenheim valiantly setting out upon a quest of adventure in untried paths. Sternly he turned his back upon the allurements of post-war intrigue among the nations. Ruthlessly he brushed from his desk the ruddy companionship of Burke. "Neither an international spy nor a titled personage shall be my hero," quoth he; "I shall choose a quiet, middle class travelling man, and his name shall be Jacob Pratt. He shall live in the country and cultivate roses for a hobby; and mark you this, he shall not marry into the peerage."

Accordingly, Mr. Oppenheim starts questing, leading by the hand his hero. For seven pages of prologue all goes well. Jacob misguidedly invests in the oil interests of his brother in America, is forced into bankruptcy, and is accordingly snubbed and insulted by the group of men with whom he is accustomed to travel to London each morning. In the third class carriage to which he retreats he finds a sympathetic neighbor—and at this point before the beginning of Chapter I., it is apparent that Jacob Pratt and his author have words.

"I have been insulted, Mr. Oppenheim, by the wealthy merchant whose daughter I love," states Jacob firmly; "I refuse to wait until the last chapter of the book, as is customary, before being avenged. Moreover, you will make yourself perfectly miserable by keeping me both middle class and poor. Why martyr ourselves in this fashion? You have only finished the prologue and already I have on my hands three noble souls who have befriended me in need, and five snobs—included the greengrocer's wife—whom I should repay in some measure. At this rate we shall have to hire the recording angel to keep the books for us."

The author hesitates. He is no longer leading Jacob by the hand and is a trifle out of breath. He temporises with "What would you suggest, Friend Hero?"

"Something quite simple—and new," says Jacob briskly; "instead of making me wait until the last chapter to receive my reward, let me have it at the beginning of the book. I promise you in return that I shall immediately order my clothes from the best tailor in London, frequent the more exclusive clubs and grills, purchase a Rolls-Royce—at least one—and visit Monte Carlo."

"But no," protests Jacob's creater faintly; "I want you to experience a few more middle class vicissitudes—at least, that is what I firmly intended."

"'Sall right, old thing," Jacob concludes reassuringly; "don't let that startle you. The two years which you and I are going to lop off between the prologue and Chapter I. will cover a multitude of vicissitudes. Moreover, you must confess that the sooner you embark me on the Cropstone Estates plot and inveigle me into Lady Powers's little dancing class and that kidnapping expedition to Scotland the more comfortable you will be. The well known middle class is not exactly your speed."

Jacob apparently won the argument, for Chapter II. finds him a multimillionaire, and his adventures thereupon begin. He rewards his friends in adversity and punishes those who have snubbed him. He resigns his position with that heart-to-heart conversation with his employer that all of us have dreamed of experiencing some halcyon day. For while the story is a modern fairy tale. In gratitude to his author Jacob acquires a second Rolls-Royce.

The true mission of Mr. Pratt, however, is to outwit the sharpsters whom the rumors of his wealth have drawn about him, and to win the love of a scornful maiden. And in his consequent adventures the genius of Mr. Oppenheim for invention of intrigue gallops along unhesitatingly. Jacob's case against his author is proven; and when once he is introduced to the Marquis of Delchester and to his daughter, Lady Mary, the reviewer might well believe that there never was any struggle between Mr. Oppenheim and his hero.

To the unquestioning reader of fiction "Jacob's Ladder" will be a joy untrammelled. To the captious critic the book hints that Mr. Oppenheim has been revelling in the cinema and in the works of his contemporary, P. G. Wodehouse. Surely Lord Felixstowe, with his battered, riotous little racing car and his frank and continuous thirst, is at least second cousin to a Wodehouse juvenile lead. Surely there is more than a hint of a movie hero in the outwitting of Dane Montague and Joe Hartwell. A repression of the nobility until the introduction of Lady Powers on page 106 hints, moreover, at the democratisation of the Oppenheim pen. Can it be that there is a Freudian significance in the very title of the book? Jacob of old dreamed of a ladder and wrested with an angel. Jacob Pratt wrestles with his author and is preternaturally wide awake.

It may be that the hero of the next Oppenheim opus will remain middle class and run a second hand Ford. There is more than a prophesy of this in the next to the last page of the book. Jacob Pratt, he of the brace of Rolls-Royces, and Lord Felixstowe, who has become his secretary, are returning from America. As their steamer enters Plymouth harbor Felixstowe remarks carelessly: "I told Mary to bring the little car down for me if there was nothing much doing in town. I wonder whether she's here."

Jacob, being in love with Lady Mary, naturally protests. The consequent seven lines might have been written by less of a romanticist than Zola or Sinclair Lewis.

"Good heavens!" Jacob exclaimed. "Do you mean to say that you have asked your sister to drive that crazy old tin kettle of yours all the way down from London?"

"I'll lay odds," replied its owner, "that if Mary started we shall see her on the dock!"

Then habit reasserts itself. Lady Mary is there and admits that she would prefer to ride to town in Rolls-Royce No. 2 rather than in her brother's racer. The author is himself again.

Nevertheless the tart loyalty of Lord Felixstowe to his little old roadster has something distinctly novel in its promise. If the Gopher Prairie of England is snatched from Arno'd Bennett and H. G. Wells by E. Phillips Oppenheim, the first faint attempt is certainly visible in "Jacob's Ladder."

Zionists Push On Palestine Plan

Carlsbad, Czecho-Slovakia, Sept. 10.—As the world Zionist Congress was due to adjourn tomorrow, leaders expressed satisfaction at the work accomplished through open debate.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, head of the World Zionist organisation, said one of the most striking features had been the growth of the movement for the homeland in Palestine. At the last congress 200,000 Zionists were represented, while this meeting represented "nearly one million shekel payers." Particularly gratifying, he said, was the growth of the movement among the Jewish youth of all countries.

"The items on our program," said Dr. Weizmann, "which met with the greatest approval were those concerning a large land purchase in Galilee and the scheme for intensive colonisation on small holdings. The Palestine Commission is now working out plans for the realisation of this scheme. The congress also decided to establish a mortgage bank in Palestine and other credit institutions, while the Jewish Colonial Trust will be transformed into a central financial institution.

"The two political problems which the Congress faced were the attitude of the Palestine Government and our relations with the Arab population in Palestine.

"Despite the undoubted good will and sincere intentions of the British Government and its representative in Palestine, many obstacles are still to be met by our pioneers. There will be a slow change from military to civil government, but I am hopeful that the difficulties will be removed. As regards the Arab population, whose hostility has been aroused by exaggerated and mendacious reports, our intentions are unanimous in the declaration that sincere desire for co-operation shall be the guiding principle of our work.

"At the same time we have shown unmistakably our refusal to be intimidated. As regards the American representatives here, I am gratified to find among them not only old American members of the organisation but a large contingent of business men. They came not in a spirit of criticism, but with the sincere intention of devoting their abilities toward strengthening the organisation and improving the economic foundations of our work. I regret that they do not include the minority group of American Zionists, represented by Justice Brandeis."

Bobbed Hair Doesn't Matter

BY DIANA RICE

Marshall Field & Co., department store propietors of Chicago, have issued an ultimatum against rouge, powder and short hair. It is reported that only twenty girls "walked out" as a result of the order. Meanwhile New York storekeepers seem to wonder what it is all about. New York, so far as one can discover, has none of the Chicago prejudices in regard to the garb and decorations of "salesladies."

"Short skirts and bobbed hair have nothing to do with morality and efficiency," said Louis Stern, of Stern Brothers, discussing the Chicago episode. "Whether the skirts of our employes are six inches or twelve inches from the floor does not concern us. We stress neatness and dignity, but aside from that there is no effort made to influence or coerce our workers. Dress is a matter of taste and of habit. Wearing the hair short or long is a personal matter which has to do with the individual and no one else. We feel that our people have the same right to exercise individual taste in questions of dress as the debutante or the society woman."

"Frankly, it is a surprise to us that Marshall Field & Co. should make so drastic a ruling," said one of the officers of Bonwit, Teller & Co. "The question of dress is too personal a matter to be lumped under the heading 'thou shalt and thou shalt not.' It has always been our endeavor not to interfere in any way with the taste and judgment of our employes in these questions. An employe with a grudge is no employe at all, and interference with their personal liberty leads quite properly and naturally to discontent."

"Seems to me this is a tempest in a teapot," said Grant Young, general manager for Saks & Co., when asked the attitude of his firm regarding short hair, rouge and powder. "We have never thought of barring powder and rouge in moderation or the short-haired girl from our store. In fact, it is a very neat, effective way of wearing the hair and many of our most efficient and conservative workers have adopted the new-old fashion. There is nothing new an employer can say on the subject. Rules about deportment and dress are as old as department stores, and demand nothing a dignified, earnest, serious employe is not willing to live up to."

Officers of seven other department stores ridiculed the idea of long hair being compatible and short hair being incompatible with ability. They said many of their cleverest buyers, most zealous saleswomen and highly specialised department managers had bobbed hair. The fashion has in fact become so prevalent it no longer excites either interest or comment among customers. And some think it has become a habit which will endure. According to one executive, the short-haired girl, far from being a detriment, is an asset; that she is apt to be an alert, wide-awake type.

That the fashion is here to stay for some time, at least among a large portion of the feminine population, cannot be denied after a survey of theater and movie audiences, crowded streets and subway stations.

A coiffeur of thirty years' experience, who "bobs" from forty to fifty heads a week, said: "The return of the long skirt, the very long skirt, would mean good-bye to the short hair. Sweeping draperies, Gainsborough hats and small waists would bring back the pompadour, the false curls, the cornet braid. Under the impetus of the war short hair gained a tremendous following. Short skirts and small hats completed the silhouette. But if one goes, they will all go. Nothing more ridiculous can be imagined than a short-haired girl in a plumed Gainsborough and trailing skirt.

"Whether the coming year will see the last of the bobbed haired girl it is too early yet to prophesy. So far we see no evidence of it. Even at this dull season we average ten new haircuts a week, and there has been no falling off in old customers who have worn short hair for five years. While thirty years ago the vogue for short hair did not extend to all classes, this later style does. Actresses, women of fashion, grandmothers and flappers—all have succumbed. Stage fright usually attacks a woman about to have her hair cut for the first time. And whether vanity or utility is the motive behind the venture, it is always with a sigh of relief that she beholds the rejuvenating result. As one of our customers said when the last lock dropped to the floor, 'Good heavens, I feel as though I had lost a finger.' Then, too, she is afraid of the comments of husband, brother or father. To most men a woman's crowning glory is her hair. He hasn't stopped to realise that in most cases the glory is a fright. Frequent clippings keep the scalp healthy and increase the growth of the hair. With the permanent wave, short hair is generally becoming and very youthful. Without the permanent wave, the fashion would not have been so popular. That alone has made it possible."

Whether the length of Jeanne d'Arc's hair had anything to do with her ability as a warrior history does not tell us, but L. Petit de Julleville, in stressing the point, condemns loudly the "artists who, from an age in which many friends of the maid were alive, have represented her with long, flowing golden locks. In fact, her hair was black and cut close en ronde." Nor does the morality of Delilah, Lucretia Borgia and Catherine de Medical seem to have been appreciably enhanced by the length, thickness and beauty of their hair. An early writer says, in describing Delilah's predilection for Samson's famous tresses, "she praised its softness, beauty and color and compared it with her own hair, affirming it to be more beautiful." Bobbed hair was not in vogue when Catherine de Medici and her "flying squadron" of French beauties dazzled and bewildered the dandies of a frivolous court, but even under the protection of modestly coiffed hair, which later-day moralists would have us believe compatible with virtue, this connaisseuse of poisoned gloves, delicate tortures and exquisite agonies, was not conspicuous, according to historians, for either moral living or right thinking.

"While I hold no brief for short hair, rolled-down stockings or short skirts," said a professional woman who has joined the ranks of the 'bobbed' recently, "I do know that cutting my hair set the clock back just ten years. It is the most rejuvenating influence that has come into my life, as well as the most practical and sanitary one. It is the only sensible fashion for a busy woman who has little time and less patience for the intricacies of an elaborate toilet. The big question among the clan now is, not 'Shall we let our hair grow?' but 'How shall we have our hair cut?'"

-:- Auction Bridge—Players' School -:-

BY R. F. FOSTER

(Author of Foster on Auction, Auction Made Easy, Foster's Complete Hoyle, Etc.)

There is one situation in the defensive play that is so frequently mismanaged that one is rather astonished the average player does not give it more attention, especially as the same situation will be misplayed with the same unfortunate result time after time. Whether it is that the players do not realise their mistake, or do not see that it is the direct cause of their losses, it is difficult to say. Perhaps it is both.

This situation arises when it is clear that by leading a certain suit, or going on with a suit already started, the player will establish sure winners in the dummy. The danger in such cases is that the declarer will be short in the suit and will be able to get advantageous discards.

Another effect may be to relieve the declarer's mind about a suit, allowing him to unguard an honor that he would otherwise have had to protect. A further point is that the ability to win a trick in that particular suit may give him a lead from dummy and an advantageous finesse in his own hand which would have been otherwise impossible.

There are two situations that require attention, the management of the play being slightly different in each. Let us suppose the opening lead to be from a suit headed by ace and king. The king wins the first trick, but discloses four to the queen jack in dummy. To go on with the ace is to establish that queen and jack for sure tricks. If the declarer can get in on another suit and lead through the ace, it cannot be helped; but don't do it for him. He is your enemy, not your partner, and you should not do anything to make things easier for him.

Another way this situation may come up is when a second round of your suit, if you follow the king with the ace, might be trumped, leaving even the queen good in the dummy. The play then is to shift, as explained in last week's article, so that the partner may be able to lead through the declarer, whom you fear will trump.

If this can be done, and the declarer does trump, your ace is still held up over that queen in dummy. If the declarer does not trump, but discards, your ace makes. Some players make the mistake of arguing that as the queen must make anyway, it is better to have it out of the way, leaving the leader with the best cards of the suit. This is a short-sighted way to look at it, as the following hand will show:

H.—A 7 3
C.—Q 8 6 5
D.—K 9 3
S.—9 8 5

H.—J 10 9 4 / C.—J. 7 4 3 / D.—A Q. 6 / S.—10 2

Y / A Z B

H.—K 8 5 2 / C.—J 7 4 3 / C.—J 7 4 3 / S.—K 7

H.—Q 6
C.—2
L.—J 10 5 2
S.—A Q J 6 4 3

Z dealt and bid two spades at once, having six in suit, and when all passed, A led the king of clubs. At the tables at which A went right on with the ace, Z trumped it and led a small heart to dummy's ace. Winning that trick, dummy led the queen of clubs, and discarded the queen of hearts on it. This is a good example of the principle so often insisted on in these articles—to discard losers before anything else, unless you can hold the trump lead long enough to exhaust the opponents.

The next lead is the trump, and the finesse of the jack allows Z to lead the ace and drop the king. Had he been able to get dummy in again, a second finesse in trumps would have been safer, but when that cannot be done, the only alternative is to lead the top trump right out. After the trumps, Z must lose two diamond tricks, but he makes four-odd and game.

If A shifts, after the first club lead, of course he has to guess between the red suits. Either would be a defensible lead under the circumstances, because it is clear that if Y and Z hold either suit safe, they go game. In the actual play, most of those who held A's cards and shifted led the hearts, as they have some protection in that suit.

No matter which suit A leads for the second trick, B must save the game, as there is no possible way for Z to get that heart discard, and B must make the king and two diamonds. At one table, when A led the diamonds, B made his two tricks and then went back with the club, giving A the play he wanted. If Z trumps, he loses a heart. If he passes, the club ace registers. The king of diamonds does him no good, as it does not give him the essential discard.

So many players, after winning the trick in the suit to which the partner shifts, go right back with the first suit, when that trick is not enough to save the game, thus nullifying the object of the shift. In the foregoing hand the return of the club saves the game.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS

Question—It is stated that if there are four honors between the two hands, declarer's and dummy's, two re-entries can be made in either. Does not this depend on the length of the suit, and also on the possession of some inferior card in the hand that holds only one of the honors?—W. L. W.

Answer—The proposition is only a general one, and subject, like other things in auction, to exceptions. The possibility of making two reentries hinges upon the odds against one of the adversaries having four of the suit when declarer and dummy each has four. The typical case is king and three small in the dummy, ace, queen, jack, deuce in declarer's hand. By leading the jack (or queen), overtaking with king, dummy gets in once. Then, by leading out ace and queen (or jack) later, the deuce can be won by any card dummy has left, if the adversaries are out.

Question—In playing stop-gap, or three hand, the result was A 831 plus, B 581 plus and C 390. Playing at a tenth of a cent, what is the settling?—B. B. G.

Answer—Throwing off the odd figures we get A 83, B 58 and C 39. Then A wins the difference, 25 from B and 44 from C; making A 69 plus. Now B wins 19 from C, leaving B only 6 minus; while C loses to both, 44 to A and 19 to B, making C 63 minus.

Question—In playing three-hand auction what is the score for a game won? Are there any rubbers?—T. L.

Answer—There are several forms of three-hand auction. In the regulation game rubbers are played and scored as usual. In stopgap there are no rubbers, and game must be won on the deal, being worth 200. In dummy-up the games are worth 100 only.

Question—In playing contract, what is the general usage with regard to the scoring, and is there a bonus for declaring slams in advance? We find much disagreement as to this.—W. C. B.

Answer—In localities where contract is played to the exclusion of auction, notably in some of the Canadian clubs, they have found by experiment that the following schedule is about the fairest: Score below the line what is declared, if the contract succeeds. For all tricks taken beyond the contract score 10 above the line, regardless of the declaration. For a little slam bid and made, score 250; for grand slam, 500. If the contract is defeated adversaries take 50 for the first trick, 100 for the second and 150 for all further. All these scores are affected by doubling.

CRIBBAGE

Question—Playing two hand, the cards fall 7, 4, 6, 8, 5. As A played the first card and the last he pegs a run of five, and a go, as B cannot play. B disputes the run.—C. D.

Answer—The run is correct. As long as there are no duplicates it does not matter in what order the cards fall.

Question—A is dealer and B cuts, for the starter. When A accidentally turns up two cards, he says the higher must be the starter, B bets he may cut again.—D. B. J.

Answer—There is no new cut. The eldest hand, in this case B, may take his choice of the two cards for a starter.

TEXACO
TEXACO THUBAN COMPOUND
a liquid lubricant for—
Differentials, Worm Drives, and Transmissions of Automobiles

Texaco Thuban Compound is a heavy, mineral lubricant—not a grease.

It gives the best obtainable lubricating service because it sticks to gear teeth. No grade, speed, nor any other adverse condition will make "Thuban" sling off. It forms a protective cushion of oil which prevents metal contact when the gears mesh, thus reducing friction and increasing power. Notice the decrease of noise when "Thuban" is used. There is no clash and grind when the gears shift.

A very little "Thuban" goes a long way. You need only enough to bathe the gear teeth as they revolve in the power housing. This is because of its adhesive power which keeps a film on them at all times. "Thuban" is a real economy because you must use it sparingly for best results.

SOLDIERS LEAVE SHANTUNG ARMY FOR BANDIT BANDS

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 11.—Military conditions in Shantung are going from bad to worse, according to extensive investigations made by a foreign observer and reported to Peking. The Shantung army is unpaid and discontended, many of the troops have deserted and gone into banditry as a better paying occupation, and the so-called organised forces of the province are ill-equipped, badly trained and poorly led.

The Province maintains between 60,000 and 70,000 troops who have long gone unpaid; they are in a mutinous attitude and at various places throughout the province have from time to time looted and pillaged on a considerable scale. The situation is, at this writing, being held in hand in some measure, but with no assurance of what may be had tomorrow.

"BANDIT" GRAIN RIPE

Banditry is rife throughout the Province. Shantung has always been afflicted with bandits, especially at this period of the year when the kaoliang in the fields affords excellent protection and hiding places for the marauders. The distress of the famine and the present flood has undoubtedly added to the lawless element, and the disbanding of mutinous troops (originally enlisted from Shantung Province) in other sections of China has resulted in the return to Shantung of a horde of cut-throats who, without occupation, readily throw in their lot with any lawless element.

In ordinary times the military may be employed to suppress the bandits and at least the principal highways of commerce and the larger towns have been protected from their depredations. But in view of the uncertain attitude of the unpaid soldiery, troops are being employed but sparingly in bandit suppression, and officials of the provincial government have openly confessed that they are unable to employ the soldiery on an extensive scale because of the financial situation which confronts the military authorities.

TROOPS HAVE NO LEADER

The military establishment is under the nominal control of the Tuchun, but as a military leader he is equally without force or ability as he has demonstrated himself to be as Civil Governor. The real authority rests largely with his divisional and brigade commanders. Some of these men appear to be of a reasonably high type for Chinese military officers, but others are of medicore ability. There has, however, been no indication of disaffection or disloyalty among these commanders and it is to be remarked that there is not among them any man of outstanding force, ability, training or capacity, who might be a successful leader in the Province.
